3 submarine	u/i	5 July	1300		near Hel 1 Buoy				Three submarines surfaced at Hel 1. They moved toward surface and appeared to practice attack against [REDACTED] ship. They approached to within a distance of 200 meters and turned away. The periscope of the submarine was visible to a battery commander's telescope. Subsequently the three submarines approached an enemy vessel of approximately 100 GRT and fired a volley of 40 mm guns which drifted on up approximately 1 sea mile distance. The auxiliary vessel had a flash deck and fire the Polish war design bridge and ships and a crack off of the front each on the fore side and aft of the engine room. When [REDACTED] ship approached the submarine fired at high speed toward [REDACTED] [REDACTED] gun before the warning tone. The submarine had a capacity of an estimated 250 tons. The submarine suddenly surfaced and departed toward east northeast. It was of the same type as the submarine sighted at Hel 3 buoy. It flew the Polish war design. Two sailors were on the [REDACTED] [REDACTED]	25X1 25X1

The submarine surfaced. [redacted] Conning tower and bow surfaced at 25X1 about the same time. The submarine headed north-northwest, turned and departed toward west-southwest. The submarines moved in the restricted area. Left Gdynia harbor at high speed.

Only the conning towers were visible

Most of the vessels flew masthead flags

[redacted] flew the Soviet war ensign. It had a grey coat of paint and a grey stack with a black rim. Left harbor.
